

Tinley Legion Notes

The monthly meeting of the Cook County Council, held at the City Hall, Chicago, March 5th was designated as Auxiliary Night. The guests of honor were State President, Mrs. Kellogg, and County President, Mrs. Southern. National President, Mrs. McCrae telegraphed her regrets at being unable to attend. Service to the disabled men in hospitals was the dominant note of addresses by these distinguished Auxiliaries.

The World war made it imperative that the United States use the draft to furnish needed man power. The days of old when a nation's battles could be fought with volunteers, is past. Modern warfare will demand, more and more, vast numbers of soldiers, vast resources, both natural and manufactured, and vast wealth. It is a conclusive fact, that if the United States ever does enter another major war, the first step, either before war is declared or afterward, will be to draft the youth of our country.

The veterans of the World war, as represented by three-quarters of a million in The American Legion, believe that if youth is drafted to fight the nation's battles in the future, then capital, also, should be made to serve the nation—at least controlled and mobilized in a way that all profit will be eliminated.

The Legion wants such a fundamental principle, the principle of "equal service for all in time of war, and special privilege or profit to none," written into the basic law of our land. In order to do this, the Reed-Wainwright resolution, written by the Legion, has been introduced in congress with the request that it be adopted at this session.

That resolution provides for a commission to be appointed to study and investigate the principle of universal draft in case of war. The commission would be composed of representatives and senators, and representatives of capital, of labor, of industry and of the other elements of our national life and business. The duty of the commission would be to agree upon such a principle, and frame a bill which would be submitted for the consideration of congress.

Certainly, this request of the former members of our armed forces in the greatest war in history, is reasonable and fair. If we ever have another war, we certainly will have the draft, but it is liable to be a draft of men to fight, only. When we have a workable law, which would make capital fight, too, along with the youth of our country, we will have as sure a guarantee for peace, as sure a thing as can be assured.

Tinley Park Lions Club Notes

The semi-monthly meeting of the Tinley Park Lions Club was held on Monday evening in Andres hall. It was decided to entertain the Bowling League members at a fete shortly after the bowling season which ends the latter part of April.

According to the discussions raised by many bowlers present, everyone is trying to find some way to have bowling alleys in our village.

Those not present missed the cigars and cigarettes passed around.

Special discussion was placed on the subject of having a 4th of July Parade. A committee was appointed by the president to co-operate with the committee from the American Legion Post No. 615 of Tinley to work out a plan for the parade and dance July 4th.

An interesting feature of the evening was a lecture by Fred Goebel on the process of manufacture of soda water, machinery used and showed samples of bottles, caps, etc used many years ago and compared them with present day equipment.

It was an interesting and educational talk to the many Lion members who were not acquainted with these various processes.

It is planned to have many such lectures at the forth coming meetings which will prove educational to all the members.

Tinley Triangle Notes

The Club Meeting was held on March 10th and a large number of members were present. A motion was made to have several golf teams and tournaments. The club is to give a cup to the winner. A committee was appointed and will report at the next meeting.

The club voted on giving a dance May 10th so watch this column.

A social meeting will be held after our next business meeting, March 24th. Allan Brueggemann, Henry Boldt, Ben Argyle are the first to serve, "LET'S EAT", the rest of the club says.

Miss Mildred Hicks, our secretary is also a new member and she was elected by a big majority.

Our new treasurer's record is a nice, new shiny, clean one, BUT as he is treasurer and in charge of the Triangle Club's mint, we hope that he makes it grow by safe investments. That's all folks. Now watch this column for news of our next dance.

MOKENA GARDEN CLUB NOTES

Publicity Chairman, MRS. OTTO BARTELS, Mesdames Albert Braun, Frank Tooley, Harry Mall and Arthur Hall attended a meeting of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, Monday, March 10th, in the Gray Room of the Hotel Sherman.

The meeting was held to give useful instruction to the many ladies who are chairmen of the exhibits to be shown March 28, April 5th at The Garden and Flower show, hotel Sherman.

Mrs. Caldwell, pres., of the Ill. Federation of Women's Clubs presided. Mr. James Burdett gave an instructive talk in general along the lines of arrangements of exhibits and gave many helpful answers to scores of questions asked pertaining to same. Mr. Burdett of Vaughn's Seed Co., is authority on Landscape Gardening, also along many other lines relative to flowers and gardens.

Mandell Bros. sent an Interior Decorator who furnished many useful suggestions in regard to combination of vase and flower, table and wall drapery.

Under Mrs. Caldwell's splendid leadership, untiring efforts are put forth by all of the clubs to make the coming Garden and Flower show a great success.

Garden Clubs not affiliated with the Federation were eligible to enter this contest.

The Mokena Garden Club takes great pride in the fact that they have made five entries. Chairman of exhibits are as follows: Fern and Floral room arrangement, Mrs. H. Mall; Shadow Box, Mrs. R. Beechstein; Bud and Bark, Mrs. W. H. Lowe; Poster, Mrs. J. Balaz; Garden Tea Table, Mrs. A. C. Hall.

Our club urges each and everyone to attend this wonderful worth while exhibition.

I love to go to the flower show. Where beautiful roses are all aglow, Pink and white delicate tea, Deep rich red, blushing rosily. Tulips and hyacinths old fashioned yes,

Appearing so gay in each colorful dress;

Stately callas both yellow and cream,

Looking as tho they stepped forth from a dream;

Sweet valley lilies, so lovely, so dear,

Thrilling my heart with thin fragrance and cheer.

Flowers! Flowers! God's beautiful Flowers

Telling of springtime and soft April showers;

Fashioned by Him whose great heart loves them all.

The wee sunny dandelion and white lilies tall.

Yes, I do love to go to the flower show.

Where fragrant flowers are all aglow.

—ANNIE L. WALKER.

This flower show is for you, and for me. It will be held April 5-13 in the Chicago Stadium. This is the world's greatest exposition building. Exhibits of every description including equipment, appliance or material for flower culture. Profusion of rarest and finest varieties and specimens of flowers and plants displayed and arranged in spectacular setting. Model gardens, complete in every detail. Formal and informal types. Naturalistic settings with water falls, pools, etc. You must not miss it.

This is the fourth annual flower show. The first flower show was held with six exhibitors. Then came an increase to 18 clubs. These 18 clubs compose the charter members called the Illinois Federated Garden Club. There is now a total of 87 garden clubs known as the Garden Club of Illinois with a special meeting being held to bring in three more, making a total of 90 clubs with a further 26 coming in later.

In the center of the large arena the Lake Forest Garden Club are planning a gorgeous display to correlate with the various commercial exhibits which will be arranged around it.

Around this will come three terraces, the first terrace to be raised from the floor about 1 foot. On these terraces will be found the exhibits of the various garden clubs.

At one end of the arena will be a gorgeous garden the cost of which will aggregate $16,000 under the supervision of John Schupera a very exclusive New York florist. This will terminate with a series of three terraces and an 82 foot water fall.

The feature of the show will be spring-time gardens, represented from all sections of the country. Do not miss this Flower Show. Get your tickets now and save 25c. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. J. Klepper (chairman) and for sale also at Mrs. Dini's.

The Tinley Park Garden Club wishes to have you take advantage of this coming show. See this wonderful new building and hear the World's Largest Organ played by Ralph Waldo Emerson. We know you will be delighted.

MOKENA SEWER HEARING SET FOR NEXT FRI.

Property owners of Mokena who have had quite a tussle with the sewer proposition for over a year, have received notices this week of a public hearing to be held at the Mokena village hall next Friday night, at 7:30 o'clock, March 21st to consider the matter of constructing a sanitary sewer system at an estimated cost of $68,370.

Under the present plan two streets on the south side of the Rock Island tracks would be connected up with the sewer system, the sewer pipe to be tunneled under the tracks of this railroad. Here is a condensed summary of the cost of the sewer system:

4500 lineal feet of 12 inch tile, 4225 lineal feet 10 inch tile, 19,300 lineal feet of 8 inch tile, 125 feet of 6 inch tile pipe risers, all labor, etc., at an estimated cost of $34,207.50. 125 lineal feet cast iron sewer pipe 10 inches internal diameter, with lead and jute joints, placed in tunnel beneath the Rock Island tracks, including labor, etc., $625.

79 concreted manholes $ 5,925.00
1 concrete headwall . . . 150.00
1 screen chamber . . . 150.00
2 by-pass chambers . . . 200.00
1 two story settling tank . . . 7,000.00
1 aerator tank . . . 2,500.00
1 aerator unit . . . 3,000.00
1 single story settling tank 1500.00
1 pump house . . . 2,750.00
2 fifty gal. sludge pumps . . . 400.00
1 sludge bed . . . 1,000.00
1 transmission line extending from the supply line of the Public Service Co., to the pump house . . . 1,800.00

Engineering and inspection fees . . . 3,292.50

Total estimated cost of work, exclusive of real estate and easements to be acquired . . . 64,500.00

6 per cent of the estimated cost to be applied towards the payment of lawful expenses 3870.00

Total estimate exclusive of real estate . . . $68,370.00

The extra cost for real estate for the treatment plant site will bring the cost well over $70,000. It is now up to the property owners of Mokena to say whether this improvement shall be gone ahead with or not. The entire work is to be done by special assessment. Every property owner in the village is invited to attend this hearing. Now is the time to say if you want this improvement to go thru or not and now is the time to do your talking and not afterward. Have your say so now and have it over with.

Tinley Girl's Club Complimented

The Niagara Girls' Club held their monthly meeting last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. Swisher. The girls are busy making gifts for Oak Forest. This meeting as usual, was full of interest. The girls are keeping notes on the botany lessons, one of which is given at each meeting. The following letter was read at the close of the meeting:

Blue Island, Ill., Feb. 16, 1930.

My Dear Florida and Members of the Niagara Girls' Club:

I want to thank you for the Valentines you so kindly sent to the dear old folks in Ward No. 9 at Oak Forest Infirmary. I think it was so kind and thoughtful of you. I gave each one of the old ladies one, there were just enough. In the large ward, they appreciated them very much indeed, and wished me to extend their thanks to you all.

We try to do something for them as these days come around. We gave all of the wards jelly heart shaped candy, which they all pronounced good. Easter will be the next holiday, when it must be Easter eggs, I presume.

Some of the dear souls have passed away since Christmas, and have gone to be forever with the Lord, where there is no pain or sadness. I want you little friends to realize, that all these acts of kindness you are doing for my dear old folks are counted as big things in the sight of Jesus. I am so glad you have started out in the right direction thru the influence of your dear leader. Please give my love and best wishes to her, and all of you. I hope to see you again when the weather is nice and I am going to wheel your dear leader in a chair to see some of the wards. You must be sure to let me know when you intend making a visit.

Lovingly your friend,
L. HOPKINS.

To Organize Musical Club at Tinley Park

Alexander S. Corado, bass barytone, recently came to Tinley Park with his wife, Elizabeth Moritz-Corodo, concert pianist and both artists intend to stay here because "they just love this little town", as they are tired of the big city with its smoke and noise and now enjoy the restful quietness.

Alexander Corado, born in Berlin, Germany, was a member of the "Deutsches Opernhaus" there. He came to this country several years ago as a member of the German Wagnerian Opera Company; and while on the boat in mid-ocean met Elizabeth Moritz, a well known concert pianist, hailing from Karlsruhe, Baden, Germany, who happened to be on the same liner.

It was love at first sight and after a whirlwind courtship, they were married in New York City. Their honeymoon trip led them thru out the United States, Canada and part of Mexico, touring and concerting.

They finally settled in Chicago where they are both teaching now at the Institute of Music and Allied Arts.

Mme. Moritz-Corodo has a splendid class of pupils, who appreciate the fact that they do not have to go abroad to find a piano teacher who has the thoroughness as well as the artistic, serious understanding, which sometimes so rarely is found. She herself was studying with some of the most famous pedagogues and pianists in Berlin.

Mr. Corado has been a recording artist with Victor and Columbia, has done extensive radio work and also concert and church work, but he soon will be busy also in Tinley Park, for we learned that soon we will have our own singing club, and Mr. Corado has been asked to be the director, which he gladly accepted, promising, that Tinley Park soon will hear from him. So we feel certain Tinley Park will profit and gain from the activities of two such fine artists.

Oak Lawn People Figure In Suit

A jury in the Will County Circuit Court at Joliet is hearing evidence this week in a suit for $15,000 damages instituted by Mrs. Marguerite Melvain of Oak Lawn against Anton Wicevic, Joliet grocer following an automobile accident at Evergreen Park.

On Tuesday Wicevic, filed a suit for $10,000 damages in the same court on behalf of his daughter Virginia who was injured in the same accident. Mr. Melvain is named defendant in this suit.

Wolf Road Bridge Plans Received

The bridge plans for both the Wolf road and Maple street were received from the state highway department Monday by Glen Fletcher, Will County engineer. Papers for right of way on which these bridges are to be built, are being prepared now, and as soon as the right of way needed is acquired, the bridge jobs will be advertised and the contract let after the bids have been opened and accepted. The plans are to finish the paving of both Wolf Road and Maple street this year.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any drug store has the genuine, prescription product.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Hiram L. Williamson, Illinois Press Association

Stuart E. Pierson of Carrollton has assumed his duties as director of the state department of agriculture. His predecessor, Senator Clarence F. Buck, who is making the campaign for the Republican nomination as state treasurer, spent a portion of a week in Springfield acquainting his successor with the personnel and details of the department. In assuming office Director Pierson asserted his intention to make it a portion of the most successful administration of Illinois. He stated that Governor Emmerson's sympathetic understanding of the agricultural problem is ample assurance that the present administration will do its utmost to bring about improvement. He stressed the great necessity of tax revision as a means of placing agriculture on an equal footing with other industry and pledged his aid toward bringing about the adopting of some plan that will tend to remove the unjust burden that the present revenue provisions place upon the tangible wealth of Illinois.

Director H. H. Cleaveland, of the department of public works and buildings, has been designated by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, who is in Florida, to represent him at the tri-state meeting of the Lincoln Memorial Highway associations of Illinois, Kentucky and Indiana at Vincennes. The Lincoln Memorial Highway associations of the three states are advocating a highway from Hodgenville, Ky., to Springfield, along the route followed by the Lincoln family.

Secretary of State Stratton has announced that he will recommend cancellation of the commissions of notaries charging more than the statutory 25 cents for the notarizing of applications for automobile license applications. It was learned that some notaries public are charging 50 to 75 cents.

"Under the law, the state has authority to improve only highways in the state's bond issue system," Director H. H. Cleaveland of the state department of public works and buildings, has declared. County boards alone have the power to take the initiative in construction of secondary roads to be built under the 1929 motor fuel tax law, Mr. Cleaveland continued. "However, the state does exercise supervision over the construction of secondary highways by the counties," he added. "The state's administrative policies controlling the construction of these roads were formulated only after long and careful deliberation."

Over 750 students at the University of Illinois have been vaccinated during the current year through the university health service. About 80 per cent of the men and 75 per cent of the women give histories of successful vaccination at the time of matriculation. The 717 men and 44 women vaccinated during the current year bring the percentage of vaccinated students up to about 90 per cent. This practically makes the university population immune to that disease.

Illinois is assuming a dominating position in reducing preventable blindness, is the belief of State Representative William G. Thon, of Oak Park. As a member of the advisory council of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Mr. Thon has just completed a survey of conditions in the state. "Surprising results have been obtained already from the special classes for school children with impaired vision," Mr. Thon said. The society is sponsored by some of the most prominent men and women in the state, and a campaign for new members is under way so that a committee in every county can be obtained to keep a constant check on preventable blindness in every locality.

Regulation of bus and heavy truck traffic on city streets was discussed by members of the legislative committee of the Illinois Municipal League at a luncheon meeting in Springfield. Mayor O. W. Smith, Decatur, chairman of the committee, presided. Allen T. Gordon, representing the Illinois Manufacturers' association, discussed matters regulating county finances and taxes, and Mrs. Anna Wilma Ickes, Chicago, spoke on a bill to provide for construction and operation of sewage treatment plants on a rental basis by municipalities.

A court has no authority to dispose of liquor seized without a search warrant until the state's attorney brings the offender to trial or files application with the court for an order to destroy or dispose of the liquor, Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom has ruled.

Illinois state museum has one of the most nearly complete collections of the birds of Illinois in existence. Recently, however, the assistant curator of zoology, Miss Barbara Tracy, has been working over the collection carefully to make sure that every bird indigenous or transient in the state is represented by the male, female, nest and eggs.

Dr. A. E. Turner, for 27 years president of Lincoln college at Lincoln, has resigned his position, effective July 1.

Prof. Griffith Taylor, D. Sc., the noted Australian geologist, geographer, climatologist, explorer and author, has been secured to deliver the complimentary public address of the Illinois Academy of Science at its annual meeting which will be held this year in Urbana on May 2 and 3 in conjunction with the quarter-centennial celebration of the state geological survey, according to Dr. M. M. Leighton, president of the academy. The subject of the address, which will be illustrated, is "With Scott in Antarctica." Professor Taylor was geologist of the second Scott expedition (1911-1912) on which the explorer succeeded in a drive for the pole but perished in a blizzard while returning to his base camp.

George H. Andrew, Oregon, quarantine officer, in the division of animal industry.

The appointments were effective March 1.

The third well-equipped home exposition, under the auspices of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will be held this year in Springfield. This exposition, the first to be held in any down-state city, will be on May 19 to 24 and will be open six days and six nights. Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, of Chicago, is president of the federation, and Mrs. C. G. Goodwin, of Chicago, is exposition director. Mrs. Fred Cowdin, of Springfield, is chairman of the exposition committee composed of approximately 80 Springfield women. The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs represents 850 women's clubs with a membership of more than 130,000 throughout Illinois. The exposition will be held in the state arsenal and the annual convention of the federation, to be held the same week, will be in the state house. More than a hundred exhibits will fill the floor of the arsenal and these will represent house furnishings, furniture, kitchen equipment, labor-saving devices for the home, apparel and, in fact, everything that makes home-like worthwhile. Merchants, manufacturers, public utilities and others will participate.

John H. Harrison, sixty-two, publisher of the Commercial News, Danville, and a power in Illinois Republican politics, died at St. Francis hospital, Miami Beach. He went to Miami Beach December 25, with Mrs. Harrison to recover from an attack of pneumonia followed by a blood clot which paralyzed his left leg and arm last October.

The library extension division of the Illinois state library issued 91,469 volumes during the year 1929. This is an increase of 15,752 over the year 1928. The greatest number of books borrowed in one month were loaned in the month of January, in which 12,964 volumes were issued. Of the total number loaned 44,932 volumes were sent to schools and community groups, for a period of three months, for the purpose of relaying, while 46,537 books were loaned to individuals, study clubs and public libraries, by direct mail service in response to requests for books on special subjects, for general reading and club papers. Pictures are also loaned throughout the state for exhibit purposes, club and school use. There were 317 requests for pictures during the year and 6,495 pictures were loaned.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, candidate for United States senator, recently completed an itinerary which included 81 Illinois counties, after which she returned to Washington to resume her duties in the house of representatives.

The Northwestern Lumberman's association which held its fortieth annual convention in January adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, that we heartily approve the program of the Mississippi Valley association for the development of inland waterways, and urge the expedition of the completion of that program."

The recent weekly health report issued by Dr. Andy Hall, state director, showed 174 cases of diphtheria, 717 of scarlet fever and 683 cases of measles under quarantine.

"Makes More Bread Than Any Flour I Ever Used"

Mrs. G. H. Blodgett
R. R. No. 1, Waverly, Minn.

"My neighbor who bakes 28 to 30 loaves of bread a week came over one day in tears. She said her bread turned out like lead and almost black. I told her it served her right because she did not use Gold Medal Flour that's 'Kitchen-tested'. She got a sack of Gold Medal and she said, 'Why, that flour is just like cake flour'. I told her there's never a failure with Gold Medal—besides it makes more bread than any kind of flour I ever used."

It's Easy Now For Women To Have Baking Success

NO longer need they worry about perfect results. Now, they can be sure of success every time with pies and cakes, bread and biscuits. They use a new-type flour for all baking purposes—

"Never a Failure With Gold Medal 'Kitchen-tested' Flour. The Only Flour For My Family" Says Mrs. Blodgett

GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour—that simplifies baking remarkably and banishes the cause of most baking failures.

Failures, experts found, were mostly due to the fact that 2 sacks of the same flour often acted differently, even with the same recipe... it was not uniform in oven action.

"First Aid—Home Remedy Week" Coming

The Good Samaritan is pictured as "The First Aid" in the national reminder which has been sent to druggists all over America, announcing the 9th anniversary of "First Aid—Home Remedy Week," fixed for March 16-23.

The idea of an advertising-merchandising one-a-year drive timed with spring house cleaning was given to the drug world by Sterling Products, Incorporated, in 1922. Preparedness for meeting accident or sudden illness is emphasized as a sensible and seasonable sales plan which serves to alleviate needless suffering and undoubtedly save life.

The National Association of Retail Druggists sponsored this ad-sales plan and later added Pharmacy Week as an autumn festival for intensive advertising and salesmanship in the drug world.

The National Wholesale Druggists Association and the National Association of Drug Clerks have joined the N. A. R. D. in establishing these festivals of selling as Spring and Autumn fixtures for the welfare of humanity.

"Fill That Medicine Chest Now" is the slogan of "First Aid—Home Remedy Week," and has been from the beginning. It was Dr. William E. Weiss, himself a graduate from the ranks of retail druggists, who first saw the value of "First Aid—Home Remedy Week," and wherever live-wire druggists have co-operated by showing a window filled with suggestive first aids both for accident or illness, and using their home newspaper advertising space, they have added cheerfully to their March business.

Mokena Youngsters Shoe Bill $1500

Ten dollars per youngster per year, is "Uncle Bob" Wilson's estimate. Mokena mothers and fathers spend in the neighborhood of $1500 yearly to keep their children "in shoes".

Such is the estimate of "Uncle Bob" Wilson, KYW artist and president of the Sinbac Radio Club, which numbers thousands of members and scores of local chapters throughout the United States. The mother of one of the members asked "Uncle Bob" how many pairs of shoes a youngster wears out in a year. "Uncle Bob" did not know but decided to find out. This he did by asking the members of his club, who are with few exceptions youngsters of school age, to tell him how many pairs of shoes they "used up" in a year and how much they paid per pair. This impromptu "survey" showed that the average youngster wore out from three to four pairs of shoes in a year and that the average price paid per pair was about three dollars. In other words, it is costing the average parent about ten dollars per youngster per year to keep him in shoes. The $1500 figure "Uncle Bob" arrived at simply by multiplying ten dollars by the number of Mokena youngsters of school age, which he calculated at 30 percent of the total community population.

The Sinbac Radio Club concerns itself with the health and happiness of its children-members and the furthering of good behavior and love and respect by the youngsters for their elders. Meetings are held from 5:30 to 6 every Tuesday evening from Station KYW, Chicago, with "Uncle Bob" as master of ceremonies.

Shoes were originally devised, says "Uncle Bob" to prevent the flesh of the feet from coming in contact with the filth of street or road, but with the passing of time shoes were also found to shield the foot from injury and bruising while walking on hard and irregular surfaces and to afford protection against the weather. Protective shoes are, they can also harm the feet considerably unless they are fitted properly. This is especially true of the young and growing feet of children, who give them hard usage at work or play.

Outstanding orthopedic authorities like Dr. H. Winnett Orr, chief surgeon of the Nebraska hospital, maintain that failure to take proper care of the feet in the matter of frequent bathing, wearing clean dry stockings and properly fitting shoes, is responsible for many ailments of which people complain. Shoes should be changed as fast as the foot fills the inner shoe space. The idea of a child having to wear out a pair of shoes before getting another is responsible for much of the disability of the adult today.

ters, declares Prof. P. D. Converse, retail business expert of the College of Commerce, University of Illinois.

There is scant justification for the belief among many small town men that the big city must be better because it is bigger, Prof. Converse maintains. Smaller cities can have practically every advantage possessed by larger communities as well as advantages unknown to the latter.

Improved business conditions, leading to more attractive living conditions, are prophesied by Prof. Converse as greater numbers of wide awake small town merchants extend their trading areas by offering better selections of reasonably priced merchandise and insisting that their towns provide attractions to neighboring buyers.

"Service stations", banks, repair shops, theatres, hospitals are of prime importance to a town seeking trade from its surrounding territory, the University of Illinois economist points out. Progressive merchandising, parking space, newspapers, and recreational facilities are also needed if the smaller city is to draw increased trade and thus secure the prosperity necessary to community improvement.

With its wide awake merchants and citizens cooperating to bring economic prosperity, the small city can turn its attention to making itself more attractive.

"Small town citizens cannot profit from their advantages without some effort," Prof. Converse declares. "Good schools, libraries, hospitals, parks, churches, playgrounds, pure water, and inspected milk do not just happen."

It's easier to build fences with RED TOP STEEL POSTS

IN a single day one man unassisted can drive 200 to 300 Red Top posts—and align them perfectly. They reduce a week's fencing job to a single day. Eliminate the back breaking post hole digging and make fence building and repair a one man odd-time job.

And Red Tops last long in the fence line—have more strength than you will probably ever need—are made of the same tough steel used in railroad rails and are properly designed to hold the fence in steady security year in and year out.

Come in and let us show you on an actual post the exclusive features that make Red Top the best steel post your money can buy—the reinforcing rib running the full length of the post for extra strength—the accurately placed, prominent studs that prevent the fence from being rooted up or ridden down—the easy driving triangular anchor plate which furnishes a firm underground foundation for the post and the rust resisting aluminum metallic finish which is baked on for permanence.

The Red Top is your assurance of extra value—it identifies a post good enough to guarantee.

Prominent studs provide a proper seat for the wire. The Red Top fastener holds wire to the post with a vice-like grip.

Easy driving triangular anchor plate assures secure underground anchorage—added strength at point of greatest strain.

SCRUB BULL IS
HALED TO COURT

Placed on Trial for Hindering Development and Prosperity of Dairy Industry.

Indicted for robbery, larceny, and a few other such charges, Scrub Bull went on trial for his life at Laurel, Mississippi, recently. It seems that for some time people had suspicions that Mr. Bull was hindering the right and lawful development of the dairy industry, thereby "maliciously and wilfully lowering production and decreasing profits in the dairy business," says the Bulletin of the American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission in commenting on the case.

This, it says, was the first trial of its kind ever held in that section and was attended by several hundred people. The jury, representing every vocation within the boundaries of the Laurel trade territory, rendered a unanimous verdict of "guilty." The death sentence was pronounced, "but during the night, before the sentence could be carried out, friends of the convict secretly spirited him away and he has not been seen since."

The arraignment came during the Milk Products Show sponsored by the banks of Laurel. People attending the show had the opportunity of also attending the bull's "trial" and went away firmly convinced of the seriousness of lax and out-of-date methods in the pursuit of dairying. The purposes of both the Milk Products Show and the trial were threefold, namely: to develop public sentiment for more and better Jerseys; to foster a more cooperative spirit for dairying and livestock growing; and to promote tick eradication.

The banks of Laurel entered into a cooperative arrangement in their efforts for fostering agricultural development and successful farming in the community, offering $2,165 as premiums to the outstanding farm workers throughout the territory during 1929. An instructive booklet has been issued, showing the agricultural activity of the banks, together with announcements of contests for farmers, exhibits in the bank lobbies and prizes offered.

THE SEA DEVIL

We lay off an isolated bay of Red Mercury island, northwest of the Bay of Plenty, for two days, during which we had a couple of narrow escapes from searching boats. A government cutter had almost sighted us when she damaged her propeller on the rocks and had to limp back home. The third day we put out to sea, and as we bounced about on the waves I swore in the cadets as regular midshipmen of the Imperial navy and promoted Vice Corporal von Egly to the rank of naval junior lieutenant. As commander of a war vessel, even though she was only the colonel's motor boat, I had the authority to do this. Then each helped the other cut his hair short in naval fashion.

Two sailing vessels came by. We decided to seize them both, sink one, and keep the other. We went after the first one, but a sudden puff of wind carried her along at a great rate, and we could not catch her. This was very unfortunate, for she reported our capture of the second boat, which she witnessed. Bombs poised, machine gun pointing, and German flag raised, we swiftly approached the Moa. She heaved to. My boys and I clambered on deck. With Colonel Turner's sword in my hand, I ordered the captain and crew herded below, the captain, an excellent old salt, growling:

"You're escaped prisoners, eh? Our boys are doing their bit in France, and at home they can't even guard prisoners."

The Moa was a fine craft but as flat as a match box. Intended for coastwise trade, she had no keel and drew only three feet of water, but she had huge masts. A storm blew up, and we scudded before the wind. The Moa's captain rushed up bristling with excitement. His boat, he protested, was not adapted for sailing on the high sea, much less through a storm. We were risking our lives, he expostulated. We should take down sail.

"We are sailing for our lives, by Jove," I responded, and kept all canvas up.

The skipper stayed on deck all night and poured out oil to quiet the waves. We went on our watches, undisturbed. Ordinarily, we would have been somewhat worried, but the storm was taking us along swiftly—away from pursuit. The waves began to break over our stern, and the Moa bobbed up and down. She had a deckload of lumber. Overboard with it. We started to work and were ably assisted by a breaker that crashed over us and in an instant swept most of the lumber into the sea. We were towing the motor boat we had taken from the commandant at Motuili. A wave swamped her, and she tore loose from the towline and sank.

We steered to the Kermadec Islands, an uninhabited group where the New Zealand government keeps a cache of provisions for castaway sailors. Curtis Island, one of the group, came in sight on December 21. It appeared in a cloud of smoke, a land of volcanoes and geysers. Presently we spied the sheet-iron shed where the provisions were stored. Kircheiss and four men landed on the inferno-like coast and in due time returned, their boat loaded deep with provisions. The New Zealand government was kind enough to provide many useful things for shipwrecked sailors and sometimes for escaped prisoners of war. There were tools, oars, sails, fishing tackle, blankets, bacon, butter, lard, canned beef—in short, everything. We had intended to leave our prisoners on Curtis Island, but that den of steatite and sulphur fumes seemed unfit for anyone. So we decided to take them ashore with a supply of provisions, and send a wireless message to sum mon aid for them.

"Smoke to the north, behind island," sang the lookout.

Two men were still on the island. I sent hastily for them. The Moa raised sail and ran before the wind. The steamer was in sight now. She sailed toward us. We changed our course. She, too, changed her course. The skipper of the Moa recognized her as the New Zealand government's cable steamer, Iris, an auxiliary cruiser. She had cannon, and we had none. Our goose was cooked.

We still tried hopelessly to run away. She gained on us, and signaled us to stop. We kept on. A flash, a distant roar, a hissing in the air, a splash in front of us. She was firing on us.

"Heave to," I commanded, and we were prisoners once again.

The Iris was manned, not by naval men, but by a nondescript crowd that put pistols to our backs as we came aboard, and searched us to the soles of our shoes. Then these gentry robbed us of our personal possessions. They were wildly jubilant over their victory. I gathered from them that the ship that had escaped us having brought the news of our capture of the Moa to Auckland, the authorities there had surmised that we must be headed for the cache of supplies at Curtis Island. When we arrived at Auckland, the New Zealanders had their own little victory celebration. Sightseers in all sorts of boats came out to have a look at the Iris with the Moa in tow steamed into harbor, the victor of the Battle of the Kermadec.

We were jailed at Mount Eden, the local prison of Auckland, as a punishment for our flight. For a calaboose, it was not bad. After twenty-one days there, we were distributed among various prison camps. Kircheiss and I went to River Island near Lyttelton on the south island of New Zealand. Even the yard of our prison in Fort Jervois was a veritable cage. It was screened not only around but also across the top with lines of barbed wire. The commander of the camp, Major Leeming of Tasmania, was one of the best fellows I have ever met. He, too, felt himself a prisoner here on this lonely island and soon became our third man at cards, which we played to while away the hours during the long evenings.

A drawbridge that had been smashed by a hurricane was being repaired, and we prisoners had access to the waterside for a while. In the yard stood a row of empty tar barrels. One of the barrels fell over, and I happened to notice that it was picked up by a small coastwise schooner that often lay at dock farther down the shore. I threw in another barrel. It floated. The boat picked it up. My plan was made. I could arrange one of these barrels so that I could float out in it. I would pick the time when the little schooner was at shore. Then I would get into the barrel and roll myself off the dock. The boat would pick the barrel up. It might seem a bit heavy, but they would think it had tar in it. The barrel once aboard, its lid would open and a man armed with a knife would step out, like a jack-in-the-box. Thus I would have a boat. I would pick up Kircheiss, who would be waiting, and we would go sailing and perhaps get to some neutral island.

Major Leeming had been so kind to me that I did not want to embarrass him by escaping under his command. He, expecting an addition to his family, was to take a furlough. I would do my fall-breaking while he was away. But soon after Major Leeming went on his furlough, Kircheiss and I were ordered back to the prison camp at Motuili. Of course, there was a new commandant at Motuili now, a Major Schofield. Most of the prisoners there received us with enthusiasm.

Even the treacherous Polish doctor brought me a bottle of champagne, hoping that I would not mention our former little business transaction in which he was to get a percentage of that $25,000.

Some of our own countrymen who had spent so many hours learning parts for that theatrical show seemed to hold it against us. But, after all, had I not treated them to a far better melodrama from the life of a sailor? Presently, several fellows came to me and asked if I did not think something could be undertaken. They had already contrived to get a few pistols and build a folding canvas boat. We could not very well go to sea in that. But if we could contrive to station ourselves at some other part of the island, we could wait until a sailing ship came along, put out in our flimsy little craft, and attack her. We consulted with the former governor of German Samoa, Doctor Schultz-Ewarth by name, who was a prisoner at Motuili. He with his personal servant, a giant fellow, formerly a German baker, was allowed to wander where he pleased on the island. It was his man who hit upon the idea of hiding in the interior of the island by building a cave in the side of a dry river bed that he had discovered, the cave to be so disguised that searchers would not notice it. We could easily get out of the camp and into the other parts of the island, and at the same time, give the impression that we had escaped over a cliff to the shore and been picked up by a boat. We could keep to our retreat until the search had died down, and then we could watch for a passing sailship and attack it. The plan seemed an excellent one.

We gathered more weapons, while Doctor Schultz-Ewarth and his man, on their long rambles, began the construction of the cave. Things progressed rapidly. Then the Armistice came. If it had been delayed a week, there would have been another escape at Motuili.

Modern Coed Has Own Standard of Freedom

I have come in contact with a number of modern coeds at various institutions; and many of them have been able, not to say willing or eager, to discuss excessively delicate subjects with the utmost freedom, as long as the discussion remains on a scientific or dispassionate basis. If there is anything that many modern coeds will not talk about I don't know what it is.

I am quite unable to state, however, that they are infinitely more sophisticated than their mothers, or than the preceding generation of coeds; because I have no way of knowing how much their mothers knew. I have a strong suspicion, however, that their mothers knew a great deal more than they admit knowing; and it seems quite obvious that a great many undergraduates who stand deliciously agape at the conversation and the crimes that are laid at the door of the younger generation are ready to listen to the conversations and to repeat them at every opportunity.

I might even go so far as to hint

After the Armistice, we were prisoners for four more months on the north island near Auckland, but were allowed visitors.

One day, a Maori chieftain's wife from the tribe of the Waikato, a people who made a name for themselves as warriors against the English in their heroic struggle for freedom in 1860-61, called with her retinue. This lady, whose name was Kaihau, handed me a letter. It was written in Maori, and translated read as follows:

"I come to you, O illustrious chieftain, and pass on to you for the future preservation of an old tradition the mat of the great chieftain Wai-Tete."

As she handed me the letter, she brought forth from under her dress a mat that she had hidden there while passing the prison guard.

My surprise was great, and I nudged Kircheiss, but he was as mystified as I. Fortunately, there was a German lady present who had been living in New Zealand for some time. She understood the customs of the handsome aborigines who once ruled in New Zealand, and explained to me that I was about to receive the highest honor that the Maoris can bestow upon anyone.

The chieftain's wife began to dance around me with great rapidity and wild abandon. The name of this dance was the Haka-Haka, or something like that, and at the conclusion of it she presented me with a green stone found only in New Zealand. Again she spoke.

"O great warrior from across the seas, we greet you as a chieftain of the Waikato, and among my people you shall be known henceforth as 'Al-Tete,' meaning 'Holy Water.' We believe that the spirit of our Maori hero Al-Tete has returned to us in you."

I accepted the stone and pressed the Maori woman's hand to express my gratitude. As she was about to take her departure, she requested that I hide the mat and stone and carry them to Germany with me, which I did. But before concealing them, I had my picture taken wearing nothing but the garb of a Maori chieftain, this simple mat. Except for the absence of full war paint and the usual tattooing, my friends said I made a perfect aborigine. Perhaps so. Even in Germany there are those who look upon me as more of an aborigine than a civilized being.

When the day on which we were to sail for home drew near, the president of the Soldiers' Mothers' league visited me and wished me a pleasant trip on behalf of the mothers of 80,000 soldiers. She said she came because New Zealand's sons who had been war prisoners in Germany had returned home in good health to their mothers. Therefore, she considered it her duty to pray God that I, too, might soon be restored to my mother's arms.

So at last we sailed away from New Zealand, "the land down under," where we had had the last of our adventures, enjoyed a few hardships, spent many weary and delightful hours, and met many hospitable and kindly people. On the whole, I have happy memories of the Antipodes.

In July of 1919, I stepped on German soil again and hurried home, just in time to pass a few more weeks with my father, who died on September 3. The old warrior held steadfast to his faith in the Fatherland to the last. But to his dying hour he was filled with regret because his government would not let him take an active part in the Great War.

On January 3, 1920, all my men returned—that is, all save one. Their clothes were faded from the tropical sun and corroded by the sea water, but they returned without a stain upon either their honor or their loyalty.

The only gap in our ranks after those long adventures was the excellent Doctor Pletsch, our ship surgeon. The news of Germany's collapse reached the remote part of Chile where he was living. When he heard it, he fell dead of heart failure.

Returned to my beloved Fatherland I found so many things changed and different from what I had hoped. In this connection, there is one memory always before me. It is of my mother. I was sitting at her sick bed when even the doctors had given up hope. Only then did I realize how much I loved her, but I also realized with sorrow and regret how much more I should have done for her. Exactly the same feeling I have today when I find my country lying low. Never have I loved my homeland so much as now.

that if opportunities do not present themselves, they make their own opportunities. It takes a high-grade of statistician to worry the inner meaning out of this state of affairs.—Kenneth L. Roberts, in the Saturday Evening Post.

Hard to Find

He was very old, but passionately attached to the royal and ancient game. The more he played, however, the more inaccurate became his strokes, and his play generally was worse and worse as time went on.

Finally, after missing the ball 15 times in succession on one occasion, he turned to the patient caddy and remarked:

"Dear, dear! I suppose there can't be any worse players than myself."

"Well," returned the caddy consolingly, "there may be worse players, but, of course, they don't play."

Rewards offered by the Indian government for snake killing resulted in 37,000 snakes being killed last year.

Lesson for March 16

THE PARABLES OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 13:24-32.
GOLDEN TEXT—The kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Whole World for Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The World for Christ.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Our Religion Means to Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Christianity Means to the World.

The things set forth in these parables only apply to the church in the measure that they permeate that body by virtue of its being formed within this period. It should be observed that they set forth the "mysteries" of the kingdom.

I. The Wheat and Tares (vv. 24-30, cf. 36-43).

1. The sowers. The sower of the good seed is the Son of Man (v. 37), and the sower of the tares is the devil (v. 39).

2. The growing crops (v. 26). There is a striking resemblance in the growing crops. The chief peril of the devil is that he transforms himself into an angel of light (II Cor. 11:14, 15).

3. The harvests (v. 30).

There comes a time when the fruit of the crop shall be gathered. The separation is made by the angels under the direction of the Son of Man. For the tares there is a furnace of fire. For the wheat there is the Lord's garner.

II. The Mustard Seed (vv. 31, 32).

1. Its unimportant beginning (v. 1). It begins as the least of all seeds. Not only was Christ, the King, of humble parentage, but His disciples were unlettered fishermen. Likewise, through the centuries, not many wise and not many noble have been called.

2. Its vigorous growth (v. 32). Though small in its inception, the work inaugurated by Christ has become mighty in power.

3. Its lodging capacity (v. 32).

The birds which find lodgment in the tree do not represent the children of men who find safety and salvation in the church, but the predatory beings who have found shelter in the church, though they are no part of it.

III. The Leavened Meal (v. 33).

1. The meal in Scripture means something nutritious and wholesome. It was used in one of the sweetest offerings which typified Christ (Lev. 2:1-3 R. V.).

2. The woman.

The woman is the administrator of the home. Her responsibility is to take the bread provided by the head of the home and prepare and distribute it to the children. It means then that the woman, the administrator, has introduced false doctrine and thus corrupted the children's bread.

3. The leaven.

In Scripture, leaven is invariably a type of evil (Ex. 12:15; Matt. 16:6, 12; I Cor. 5:6-8; Gal. 5:8, 9). It means that in this age the truth of God would be corrupted by worldliness and unbelief.

IV. The Hidden Treasure (v. 44).

1. The field (v. 38). Christ's own interpretation makes this the world.

2. The treasure. The treasure means Israel (Ps. 135:4, Deut. 7:6-8).

3. The purchaser. No one but the Son of God had sufficient resources to buy the world (John 3:16).

4. The purchase price. This was the precious blood of Jesus Christ, God's beloved Son (I Pet. 1:13, 19).

V. The Merchantman Seeking Pearls (vv. 45, 46).

1. The merchantman is Christ. The Son of Man has come to seek and save that which was lost (Luke 19:10).

2. The purchase price. Christ impoverished Himself (Phil. 2:6-8) to purchase the one pearl of great price (Eph. 5:25).

3. The pearl of great price. This is the church (Col. 1:18).

VI. The Dragnet (vv. 47-50).

1. The sea. The sea in Scripture denotes peoples or multitudes (Dan. 7:3; Rev. 17:15).

2. The dragnet. The dragnet cast into the sea means the sowing of the seed by the Son of Man.

3. The dragnet drawn to the shore when full means that when God's purpose for the present age is full, account will be taken of the results.

4. The separation made by the angels. This will take place at the end of the age.

5. The destiny of the bad fish. The angels shall sever the wicked from among the just, and shall cast them into the furnace of fire where there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

Lonely Hearts

WILBERT has a heart of gold. Will no one tell him what's the matter—why girls turn pale, and gracious matrons freeze at his approach? Yes, we will. This has gone far enough. Get a new pipe, Wilbert, and break it in gently, thoughtfully, with Sir Walter Raleigh's favorite smoking mixture. When the curling wisps of its fragrance surround you, everything will be changed, Wilbert.

How to Take Care of Your Pipe

(Hint No. 3) To make your pipe sweet from top to heel, smoke after dinner and when you break it in, fill the bowl half full the first few times so that the heel, and not merely the top, will be broken in. To Honor Two Generals of War of 1812

"PIKE'S PEAK" Courtesy Pike's Peak News Bureau, Colorado Springs

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

MEMORIAL gateways to two heroes of the War of 1812 are soon to be erected near the scenes of their exploits at Madison barracks, Sackett's Harbor, N. Y., if arrangements now being negotiated between the Society of the War of 1812 and the War department are completed successfully. One will bear the name of Gen. Jacob Brown and will pay tardy honor to an officer who is comparatively unknown to most Americans but who, because of his deeds in a war in which there were more conspicuous failures than conspicuous successes among American generals, deserves remembrance. The other will bear the name of Gen. Zebulon Montgomery Pike, more noted as an explorer than as a fighter, but a devoted patriot in the truest sense of the word, and an officer whose short life was crowded with valuable service to his country and whose untimely death during the War of 1812 was one of America's great losses in that conflict.

General Brown's career is something of a paradox. He was born of Quaker parents in Bucks county, Pennsylvania, May 9, 1775. Being thrown upon his own resources at the age of sixteen, when his father lost his property, Brown secured a good education by his own efforts and became a school teacher at the age of eighteen. After a short career as a surveyor in Ohio, he went back to school teaching in New York and then began the study of law. Not finding this to his liking, he became a farmer in Jefferson county, N. Y. and in 1809 was appointed colonel of a militia regiment. At the outbreak of the War of 1812 the governor of New York made him a brigadier general of militia and entrusted to him the important command of resisting the British invasion of that state.

"Gen. Jacob Brown, though of Quaker descent, was an excellent fighter and admirable leader not only at Ogdensburg and Sackett's Harbor but also at Fort Erie, Chippewa, Lundy's Lane and elsewhere," according to the sketch of him in "The Winning of Freedom" in the Yale University Press series, "The Pageant of America." It declares further that, "He was a very fine example of the best type of keen and capable militiaman developed by the war into a first-rate, all-round soldier, and then turned into an equally good regular." He proved it during the second Niagara campaign in 1813 when General Dearborn, commander of the American regular army, departing from the authorized plan of campaign and, leading an ill-advised expedition toward the western end of Lake Ontario, left his base at Sackett's Harbor, the key to central New York, exposed to the enemy.

Fortunately, however, Sackett's Harbor was commanded by General Brown, although he had only a small garrison to hold the post. "Prevost at Kingston promptly took advantage of the opportunity his enemy had given him," says the "Pageant." Two days after Dearborn had attacked Fort George, Prevost misadvised an assault on Sackett's Harbor with a strong force of regulars. Jacob Brown, as Morgan had done at Cowpens, deployed his militia in front, backed by a thin line of regulars. The ill-trained state troops promptly fled. But then the regulars, falling back to the defense of the barracks and blockhouse, fought off the British with heavy loss. So General Brown established his reputation as a skillful officer and a fighter who would not accept defeat.

In February, 1814, General Brown, who had by this time become a regular army officer, received his first independent command. An excellent summary of his campaign is given in the "Pageant" volume previously referred to, as follows:

For once most of the American army was given a period of thorough training before being put into the field. Moreover, experience in campaigning had produced many seasoned veterans. Thus, when, on July 3 Brown threw his army across the Niagara river and took Fort Erie without a fight, he commanded a force of officers and men unlike any that America had hitherto produced during this war. Two days later, after pushing rapidly northward, Brown fought and won a general engagement at Chippewa. "A bold attack, complete response to trained officers, the use of the bayonet, with which the Americans were now completely armed," are the words of that very candid critic, Major Ganoe in "The History of the United States Army."

Some imperfectly trained militia broke at the first shock. But when the British regulars advanced in force the American regulars, though not in much greater numbers, stood fast, maneuvered exceedingly well, fired with precision and charged home with victorious effect. Chippewa, however, was, in a strategic sense, little more than a preliminary skirmish. Brown's real purpose was to wrest the priceless Niagara peninsula from the enemy. But to do so involved the taking of Fort George and that involved co-operation with Chauncey (the American naval commander on Lake Ontario). "For God's sake, let me see you," was Brown's urgent message to Chauncey, who remained at Sackett's Harbor.

But Chauncey did not come; so the British were free to move at will by water along the shores of Lake Ontario. The Battle of Lundy's Lane (a little more than a mile from Niagara Falls) was the result of a maneuver forced upon Brown by Chauncey's failure to appear. It was a bloody and stubbornly fought engagement, beginning in the afternoon and carried far on into that stifling midsummer night. It was in truth a drawn battle. Having fought, like the British, to exhaustion, the Americans retired to their camp at Chippewa for water and supplies. Ripley commanded the final phase; for both Brown and Scott were badly wounded. Later on the Americans withdrew to Fort Erie, which Brown had wisely begun to strengthen the very day he took it.

Brown's services in this war won for him the thanks of congress with a gold medal "emblematical of his triumphs" and in 1821 he became the ranking general of the armies of the United States. He died in Washington February 24, 1828, and was buried in the Congressional cemetery in that city.

If the War of 1812 brought to Brown well-merited recognition at the time, even though his fame has been somewhat dimmed by the passage of years, it brought death and the end of an unusually promising career to Gen. Zebulon Montgomery Pike. For he was killed at York (now Toronto), then the capital of Upper Canada, on April 27, 1813 during the second Niagara campaign. An attack upon York had been decided upon by the American military authorities as the first move in that campaign. On April 25, 1813, General Dearborn embarked on board Commodore Chauncey's fleet about 1,700 troops under the immediate command of Brigadier General Pike, whose promotion to this rank had been made March 12, but was not as yet confirmed.

The fleet reached York on the morning of April 27. General Dearborn remained with the fleet, confiding the immediate command of the soldiers in action to General Pike. The Americans landed in small detachments. Reinforcements arrived. The English and Indians who opposed their landing were driven back to their fortifications. General Pike, leading his men, was advancing on the stronghold of the enemy. The evacuation of the works had begun.

There was an explosion. The magazine of the enemy had been blown up, probably by design. One of the missiles that hurtled down on that band sought out its heroic leader with fatal effect.

He fell crying, "Push on, my brave fellows, and avenge your general."

The dying general was carried to a boat at the lakeside and taken aboard the flagship Madison. When those who bore their fallen leader reached the boat the huzzas of troops fell upon his ears.

"What does it mean?" he asked, feebly. "Victory," was the reply. "The Union Jack is coming down, General—and the Stars and Stripes are going up."

The dying hero's face lighted up. He lingered a few hours longer, but before the end had come, the British flag was brought to him. He made a sign to place it under his head. And thus he died.

Pike was born in Lambertton, N. J., January 5, 1779, and at the age of fifteen enlisted as a cadet in the regiment of his father, also named Zebulon Pike, who had served in the Revolution and who continued in the service until 1815 when he was honorably discharged as a lieutenant colonel. After five years' service as a cadet, he received his first commission, when only twenty years old, being promoted to the rank of ensign, or second lieutenant of the Second infantry, March 3, 1799.

GEN. JACOB BROWN, Painting by Alonzo Chappel

From that time promotion followed promotion, until he was a brigadier at the age of thirty-four. On November 1, 1799, he was advanced to the first lieutenantcy, and on April of the following year was transferred to the First infantry.

Pike became famous as the head of two exploring expeditions. His first voyage and the one about which there is the least known was to the headwaters of the Mississippi, his purpose being not only to find the sources of that river, but to impress upon the Indians and British fur traders that they were under the sovereignty of the United States. With 20 soldiers of the regular army, he sailed in a keel boat 70 feet long from St. Louis on August 9, 1805.

The winter was spent in what is now Minnesota, a permanent camp being established. Deer and bear were common game, though buffalo and elk were often seen. In his search for the headwaters of the great river, Pike often penetrated deep into the lake-dotted region, exploring the Leech drainage system, which he mistook for the true source, and not reaching Lake Itasca. At St. Anthony's Falls, he held a council with the Sioux and secured from them a grant of 100,000 acres in that neighborhood. Finding the British flag flying over the British trading posts, he promptly hoisted in its place the Stars and Stripes. In the spring the party floated down stream and arrived in St. Louis April 30, 1806.

Resting in St. Louis for over two months, Lieutenant Pike was again placed at the head of an exploring party and dispatched, from the landing at Belle Fontaine, July 15, 1806, to make his way across the prairies to the Rocky mountains.

On November 15, from the banks of the Arkansas in western Kansas the "Mexican mountains" were sighted. At a point near the present site of Pueblo, Pike left his main detachment, and with Doctor Robinson and Privates Miller and Brown, struck north for the "Blue mountains," determined to reach the summit of the "Grand Peak." The nearest party came to the peak was on November 27, when they reached the top of a ridge about fifteen miles from the summit of the "great white mountain." Returning to the camp on the Arkansas, the party continued its journey into the heart of the mountains.

They penetrated into the South park, and some writers believe touched Pacific waters in reaching the headwaters of the Gunnison. Back again at Canon City, Pike took a squad of his men and struck across the mountains in search of the Red river. Hardship after hardship was encountered, until after traversing the valley at the base of the Wet mountains, and crossing the Sangre de Cristo range, they found themselves in the San Juan valley. Arriving at a river, which Pike mistook for the Red river, but which was in reality the Rio Grande, they built a stockade near the present town of Alamosa, on a branch of the Conejos. Here Pike and his companions were captured by the Spaniards, taken to Santa Fe and thence to Chihuahua, where his papers were seized. He was treated courteously and escorted back to the United States, arriving at Natchitoches, in advance of his men, about July 1, 1806.

Needless Pain!

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain.

Lots of suffering is, indeed, quite needless. Headaches, for example. They come without warning, but one can always be prepared. Bayer Aspirin tablets bring immediate relief. Keep a bottle at the office. Carry the small tin in your pocket. Then you won't have to hunt a drugstore, or wait till you get home.

And don't think Bayer Aspirin is only good for headaches, sore throats, and colds! Read the proven directions for relieving neuralgic, neuritic, rheumatic, and other aches and pains. Remembering, of course, that the quick comfort from these tablets is not a cure; for any continued pain, see a doctor.

Bayer Aspirin is genuine. Protect yourself by looking for that name. Always the same. Always safe. Never hurts the heart.

YOU HAVE A DOCTOR'S WORD FOR THIS LAXATIVE

In 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he saw the harm in harsh purgatives for constipation and began to search for something harmless to the sensitive bowels.

Out of his experience was born a famous prescription. He wrote it thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. As people saw how marvelously the most sluggish bowels are started and bad breath, headaches, feverishness, nausea, gas, poor appetite, and such disorders, are relieved by the prescription, it became necessary to put it up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original effective and harmless formula. All drugstores have it.

For any BABY

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician. All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.

TINLEY PARK

TINLEY PARK M. E. CHURCH

G. C. Dude, Pastor

Services on Sunday as usual, Sunday School at 10:00 a. m., and Morning Worship at 11:00 a. m.

We hope the attendance will increase. During this season of the year special interest should be shown by everyone to Jesus Christ and His church.

Going to church is one way to show this. Let us go to church some where every Sunday.

LUTHERAN CHURCH

William Greve, Pastor

You are welcome at all of our services.

Services in the German language are conducted every Sunday and Church holiday, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m.

English services are conducted every second and last Sunday of the month, beginning at 10:30 o'clock a. m. On these Sundays the German services begin at 9:30 o'clock a. m.

The Ladies Aid society meets every second Thursday of the month at 2 o'clock p. m., in the school basement.

The Young People's society meets the first Thursday of the month at 8 o'clock p. m.

The Blue Island Pleasure Club will hold a dance at the Saenger hall, March 22nd. Everyone invited.

Peter Parenti, Jr., who is Arizona, is reported to be getting along nicely.

There is considerable building activity going on in the Elmore subdivision north of town.

It looks like a hot village election all right. The fight is centering on aldermen. Among those filing petitions for this office are Wm. Firchau, Philip Mager, Fred Hick, Arthur Schoeneck, John Boeyer and Edward Mohr. Harry Mager is a candidate for re-election to the office of village clerk and has no opposition.

Relatives, neighbors and friends visited at the Henry F. Daul home Wednesday evening in honor of his birthday.

Bunco was played and every one had a good time. At mid-night a delightful lunch was served.

The guests departed at a late hour and wished Mr. Daul many more happy birthdays.

MAN CAN'T SLEEP, GETS NERVOUS, HATES PEOPLE

"I could not sleep and got so nervous I hated everybody. Since taking Vinol, I can sleep 10 hours and feel full of pep all day." Julius Bender.

For 30 years doctors have prescribed Vinol because it contains important mineral elements of iron, calcium and cod liver peptone. The very FIRST bottle brings sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Nervous, wornout people are surprised how QUICK Vinol gives new life and pep! Tastes delicious.

Green Garden Fire Insurance Co. Business Increasing

The Green Garden Fire Insurance Company has had a very good year the past season as shown at their recent annual meeting. W. C. Holstein, the well known agent of the company at Tinley Park, reports that the company has $9300 in the treasury and has had a decided increase in new business over the preceding year. Mr. Holstein and Mr. Schwiesow, the latter of Monee, turned in the most cash business.

Within the last few weeks Mr. Holstein has written 49 applications of which 27 were new ones.

Revenue Comm. Hearings Postponed

Because of the urgency of the primary campaign, state Senator Arthur A. Huebsch, chairman of the Illinois Revenue Investigation Commission, announces this week that further hearings will be postponed until after the primary election April 8.

The commission was authorized by the last legislature and appointed by Gov. L. L. Emmerson, to conduct an investigation and report up on legislation necessary to give Illinois permanent tax relief.

Senator Huebsch, who represents the Seventh senatorial district, comprising the country towns of Cook county, is a candidate for re-election. So too are Sen. Richard J. Barr of Joliet; Rep. Leroy M. Green of Rockford, and Rep. Alexander Kilson, of Cairo, all members of the commission.

Whether they are re-elected or not, the hearings will be resumed immediately after the primary. Sen. Huebsch announced. In the last three weeks, representatives of the city of Chicago, the Cook county board, school board, sanitary district and park boards have appeared before the commission to give their views on the form of constitutional amendment necessary to give Illinois permanent tax relief and prevent a repetition of the present financial difficulties which confront the city, county and state. This week, (Friday, March 14,) representatives of the boards of assessors and review, the county treasurer and county clerk were called in.

Immediately after the primary, meetings will be held in each section of the county—north, northwest, southwest and south. Sen. Huebsch announced. He will speak on the tax relief legislation before the American Legion of Forest Park at Forest Park next Monday, March 17.

Favorite Bible Passages

Arthur R. Robinson
U. S. Senator from Indiana.
Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.

Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal.—I Corinthians 13:1.

A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.—John 13:34.

In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.—John 14:2-3.
